

SCANNERS OneTouch 5600 USB

The 5600 is Visioneer's latest scanner for the home market, and the design is aimed to appeal directly to home PC users. Admittedly we could take it or leave it at the office, but there are some rather smart blue and purple models to be found here as well. Although you may not recognise the brand name (HP, Canon and Agfa all have scanners on the market, too), don't pass over the Visioneer OneTouch 5600.

Installation is straightforward, although it takes a while to load all the software, which includes a photo-editing suite and an OCR (Optical Character Recognition) program. Scans are of good quality and the optical resolution of 600 x 1200 dpi means that you can enlarge areas of photos without losing too much detail. If you're after a simple no-frills scanner that does the basics well, then you can't do much better for the money.
